Blog 23:

A Special Occasion at St John's

www.stjohnsranmoor.org.uk

In which a prince, a philanthropist, 40 constables and a large dog go to church...

In October 1879 Royalty came to St John's. Prince Leopold (1853-1884), Queen Victoria's youngest son, was in Sheffield to open Firth College, a forerunner of the University of Sheffield. The Prince stayed at Oakbrook with the industrialist Mark Firth, who was, as its name suggests, the moving force behind the new college.

When it came to church on Sunday, St John's was the obvious choice. Read about the visit on the blog this week.
